Pohnpei athletes compete in 35th Liberation Day events

By Bill Jaynes
The Kaselehlie Press

September 11, 2014

Pohnpei, FSM—Pohnpei celebrated its 35th Liberation Day with a series of friendly but fierce competitions in multiple sports amongst athletes from Pohnpei's municipalities.

At press time there was still a full day of games left to be played, though the closing ceremony was held this morning at the newly refurbished track at Pohnpei Island Central School (PICS).

During the games, the enthusiasm of the athletes was high. Those spectators who were privileged to attend Liberation Games events saw spectacular displays of athleticism by competitors who are truly committed to their sports.

Unfortunately, it cannot be said that the Liberation Games went off without a hitch. Many events were poorly attended. Other than competitors and their family members, many residents of Pohnpei were unaware that the games began almost two weeks ago.

One municipality's sports manager said that he most often found out from second and third hand sources that athletes from his municipality were scheduled to compete on the next day. He was frustrated that the level of communication often left him scrambling to get the word out to athletes so that they would not miss their competition dates.

"It's not like it's the first time they've done this," he said.

There was a paucity of information from Pohnpei Sports officials. Even by press time we had received no direct information from any of the officials responsible for the games.

In this issue we have published what results have been made available to us because of the help of Stephanie Jano Edward and the United Youth Media.

Controversy over personal data on FamilySearch International continues

By Bill Jaynes
The Kaselehlie Press

September 11, 2014

Pohnpei, FSM--"If your client (FamilySearch International) will not shut down the website as it applies to Pohnpeians entirely, then the court will be asked to decide (I will sue the owners of FamilySearch)," wrote Salomon Saimon in response to a letter by local attorney Stephen V. Finnen on FamilySearch's position.

More than two weeks ago, Salomon gave FamilySearch International, a genealogical website operated by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, five days to pull the private information of Pohnpeians down from its website before he would sue on behalf of his unnamed clients. FamilySearch took down the scanned copies they obtained with the permission of Pohnpei's Supreme Court but Salomon says that is not enough.

His email today said that he would give the owners of the website 10 days to reconsider their position and "pull down" all of the information the site provides related to the vital records of Pohnpeians. If they don't, he will bring the matter before the court and will also name the Supreme Court as a defendant in the matter.

Finnen's letter issued on behalf of FamilySearch International said that the non-profit organization provides its database as a "free service to the public to aid individuals in doing personal genealogical research. This service is rooted in their belief that families are meant to be central to our lives and that family relationships are intended to continue beyond this life—a belief that is strongly rooted in the cultural and social values of the people of Pohnpei." He further explained FamilySearch's position that "resources are available to everyone who wants to discover more about their family and their heritage."

Finnen's letter acknowledged his client's position that some individuals "use any resource, even those intended for positive uses, for inappropriate and harmful purposes."

"Identity theft and misuse of personal information is a global concern, and FamilySearch strives to act responsibly to protect individuals while furthering its mission of helping people (to) connect with their extended families and ancestors," Finnen wrote on behalf of his clients.

He wrote that FamilySearch respectfully disagrees with Saimon's allegations that FamilySearch has "engaged in an inappropriate invasion of personal privacy by publishing certain public records, and is basically aiding identity theft that is directly harming the people of Pohnpei."

Finnen wrote that FamilySearch believes Pohnpei has adopted the same approach as several US states that "determined that standard vital facts (like the dates and places of birth, marriage and death) and directories obtained from public records are not private and need no legal protection." He wrote that there currently are no legal restrictions in place in Pohnpei regarding most data privacy or access to vital records."

He wrote that "if the records included other protected or sensitive data (like medical information protected in the U.S. by HIPPA) or potentially harmful data that could cause real individual harm in the form of identity theft (like a Social Security Number, bank account or credit card details, or driver's license numbers), I have been informed that FamilySearch will not publish such data."

"Family Search understands that individuals, like you, and those you represent, may object for personal reasons to their vital facts being included in its database," Finnen continued. "Consequently, FamilySearch's policy is that any individual who objects to his or her personal information being contained in the FamilySearch database may, upon written request, have his or her personal information removed from the database."

Saimon shared Finnen's letter with a large mailing list and urged the recipients not only to contact FamilySearch if they want their information removed from the database, but also to speak with their state senators.

He also shared his return email to Mr. Finnen with the recipients of the email which included The Kaselehlie Press.

"First of all, you are right that no statutory, regulatory or common law authority currently in place restrict(s) birth records from public websites. There are also no laws that make the same information public for third parties to make them available online," Saimon wrote. "Sometimes things are not in law because common sense tells us that there is no need for a statute to regulate."

This morning Saimon gave us several examples of several actions people might take that are not specifically banned by law but that common sense keeps people from doing. He jokingly said that other than public indecency laws there is, for instance, no law in Pohnpei specifically prohibiting people from defecating in the road. He suggested that there doesn't need to be a law against it because people just wouldn't think of doing it.

He reasoned that if anyone other than himself, or a close relative went to the court office to get a copy of his birth certificate, the court would refuse to provide a copy. It's not been a matter of law but of policy, "but now anyone can get the information from FamilySearch."

In his email to Finnen, Saimon wrote that Pohnpei's policy makers are behind him and that a new statute to protect the vital records of Pohnpeians is "expected to be passed right away." He told us by phone this morning that a proposed bill on the matter is already being drafted by a Pohnpei legislator.

"Your client is taking advantage of a grey area in the law and it must seriously reconsider its position," Saimon warned.

"Mr. Finnen, it is insurmountable to expect individual Pohnpeians offended to contact your client so (that) individual pretend changes that are not really changes can be made (e.g. my vital records). However, I will distribute your letter among(st) my family and friends with hopes for them to make some effort," Saimon wrote.

"I cannot rule out a complaint for declaratory relief on the law of privacy on this subject. If I were to file a suit, I will also seek injunctive relief," he wrote, and reiterated his intention to also name the Pohnpei Government since they apparently gave the organization permission to scan the records.

During our phone conversation this morning, Mr. Saimon seemed to indicate that the filing of a complaint is a foregone conclusion.

"Hawaii News Now" declares that Honolulu fight was the result of "ethnic tension"

*By Bill Jaynes
The Kaselehlie Press*

September 10, 2014

Pohnpei, FSM—Last night, "Hawaii News Now" released exclusive video footage of a fight in Honolulu that was taken from a "dash camera from a driver who unknowingly pulled up to the fight just as it started," the news service reported. The video footage was taken at about 11:40 last night.

The article said that witnesses reported that the fight involved Micronesians and Samoans who live in the area of Auwiolimu Street in the Punchbowl area "and that bats, glass bottles, pipes, sticks and a dart were used."

"According to the Emergency Medical Services, a 22-year-old man was taken to the Queen's Medical Center in critical condition while three people—a 25-year-old female, 21-year-old male and 17-year-old male—were transported in serious condition. Paramedics said they suffered injuries from various weapons," Hawaii News Now's report says.

The report asserts that Honolulu police have opened an attempted murder investigation.

The last line of Hawaii News Now's report said that police are still investigating what led up to the fight, but the report carried the headline "Ethnic tension leads to huge street fight in Honolulu, 4 injured".

Apparently, the video that Hawaii News Now ran was first shared with the news site. The article says that "he will also share it with police".

The footage can be found at www.hawaiinewsnow.com/story/26485742/police-open-attempted-murder-investigation-after-large-fight-in-punchbowl

The FSM, RMI, and Republic of Palau establish the Micronesian Trade and Economic Community

FSM Information Services

September 04, 2014

Apia, Samoa (MTC Interim Secretary) - On September 3, 2014, the Presidents Manny Mori of the Federated States of Micronesia (FSM), Christopher Loeak of the Republic of the Marshall Islands, and Thomas Remengesau Jr. of the Republic of Palau, officially formalized their historical trade and economic bonds by signing the Treaty establishing the Micronesian Trade and Economic Community (MTEC). The signing took place in the margins of the 3rd International Conference on Small Island Developing States, during a consultative breakfast Meeting between Pacific Islands Countries' Leaders and Dr. Shamshad Akhtar, Under-Secretary-General of the United Nations and Executive Secretary of ESCAP.

The vision and goals of the Treaty are to "...endeavor towards the creation of a Micronesian Trade and economic community through the promotion of sub-regional trade and economic cooperation and integration to support the achievement of sustainable and equitable socio-economic development of its Member States and improve the standard and quality of life of their People, thus contributing to the progress and development of Asia and the Pacific Region."

In their statements following the signing, the three Presidents emphasized the historical importance of the signing event. President Mori underscored the significance of the Treaty and characterized it as a "true reflection of the Micronesian spirit of collaboration which characterized the relations between the three entities." He indicated that the Treaty provides the appropriate institutional framework through which producers of the three countries could network and meet the demands of the domestic and international markets, in particular for agriculture, aquaculture, and tourism products. Furthermore, President Mori noted that there were provisions in the Treaty allowing the sisters Republics of Kiribati, Nauru, and the

The Joint Economic Management Committee holds 2014 annual meeting

FSM Office of SBOC

September 9, 2014

Palikir, Pohnpei - On August 28, 2014, the Joint Economic Management Committee or JEMCO held its annual meeting in Honolulu, Hawai'i and approved allocation of a total budget of $51,588,941 from Compact Sector grants for Fiscal Year 2015 for the FSM. This approved amount is against the total of $73,558,513 requested for the fiscal year. The breakdown of the allocation by sector is as follows:

$ 24,395,576	Education
$ 20,116,540	Health
$ 2,369,211	Public Sector Capacity Building
$ 1,988,599	Private Sector Development
$ 1,518,544	Environment
$ 1,200,471	Enhanced Reporting and Accountability
$ 51,588,941	Total FY 2015 Sector Allocation

The Office of SBOC also submitted to OIA for JEMCO's consideration at its annual meeting project proposals against the prior year unallocated funds. OIA grants managers have indicated that they are recommending favorably to JEMCO a total amount of $3,897,893 in projects against a total FSM request in excess of $9 million. JEMCO will be requested to hold a virtual vote on this allocation later this year.

In addition, JEMCO adopted two education sector related resolutions at this meeting:

- Resolution JEMCO 2014-1, Use of Compact/SEG Funds – Linkage to Accreditation Status and
- Resolution JEMCO 2014-2, Personnel Leave Policies for Compact/SEG Supported Personnel.

Resolution JEMCO 2014-1 resolves for the linkage of Compact/SEG funds usage to accreditation status of schools within the FSM effective in Fiscal Year 2016. The same resolution further resolved that in Fiscal Year 2017, any school that fails the standards pertaining to potable drinking water and sanitary toilets may not receive Compact Sector Grant and Supplemental Education Grant assistance.

Resolution JEMCO 2014-2 resolves that effective Fiscal Year 2016, Compact Sector Grant and Supplemental Education Grant assistance only towards a limited number of annual (24 hours or 3 days) and sick (80 hours or 10 days) leave for school-based staff during the school year.

Territories of Guam and Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands to join at a later stage.

President Loeak noted that "the signing occasion marked a significant milestone for the three Nations in their efforts to fully integrate trade and economic initiatives." He also stressed that "the Micronesian Trade and Economic cooperation and integration initiative constituted a building block towards greater integration of the three Countries in the Pacific, Asia and the global economy as envisaged in the New Framework for Pacific Regionalism."

Taking the example of the copra industry, which collapsed in Palau 20 years ago, President Remengesau Jr. stressed that through sub-regional trade and economic cooperation and integration pursued under the treaty, it would be possible for productive sector to consolidate the volume of the products available, and thus increase the raw material available to support the development of small industries.

The Presidents of the three Countries commended the partnership between the MTC Interim Secretariat and technical agencies (the Commonwealth Secretariat-EU funded Hub & Spokes Programme II, ESCAP, the Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat, and the Melanesian Spearhead Group Secretariat), which led to the development of the Treaty; and invited Development Partners present, among which Australia and the United States of America, to lend their support to the successful implementation of the Treaty. The Deputy Secretary General of the Pacific Islands Forum Secretariat, Ms. Cristelle Pratt, commended the FSM, RMI, and Palau for their sub-regional integration efforts, and re-affirmed PIFS' unwavering support for the implementation phase of the Treaty.

The signing of the Treaty was attended by the Prime Minister of Samoa and President of the 3rd International Conference on SIDS, Tuilaepa Sailele Malielegaoi, as well as Presidents and Prime Ministers of the Cook Island, Kiribati, Nauru, Tonga, Vanuatu and Tuvalu.

The committee also picked up on the discussions during the midyear meeting regarding the infrastructure sector grant and project implementation in the FSM. Between 2004 and 2014, out of a total $252,000,000 available for infrastructure sector grants, only $150,000,000 worth of projects have been approved and being obligated for infrastructure projects in the FSM. JEMCO members reiterated concerns over this huge amount of unspent funds and expressed commitment to assist in any way to facilitate moving forward on infrastructure implementation. Committee members also acknowledged the progress made by the informal working group consisting of both FSM and OIA staff in working more closely together to ensure that infrastructure project funds are made available to the FSM. Based on these commitments, the FSM PMU will be submitting to OIA a list of priority projects that are ready for implementation and within the capacity for PMU to implement over the coming year. Meanwhile, the FSM Government is working on updating its Infrastructure Development Plan (IDP), which will also include a review of the institutional arrangements for infrastructure implementation at both the National and State levels.

Five billfish caught by Pohnpei Fishing Club members during Matson Tournament

Pohnpei Fishing Club

Talk about an amazing tournament! Five billfish were caught, so many that one of them didn't even qualify for a prize. Sorry Ross Perkins. Beautiful sailfish though.

For the Matson Tournament we had 25 boats sign up. We were a little worried that there wouldn't be many fish out at sea this time of year, but we didn't count on the skills of our fishermen. Matson provided loads of prize money. The format was mainly big fish. The results are listed below.

Paul Alagna landed the marlin by himself. Good show. The weight difference between Paul's marlin and Walden Weilbacher's marlin was one half of a pound. The lesson is, watch where you gaff so you don't lose too much meat and blood.

We didn't even know it was Mahi Mahi season, but they were definitely out there.

Many thanks to Bill, Paul, Cel, Tina and the boom truck guys for helping out. We also had Uta, Maggie and Amy selling hot dogs for the Pohnpei Public Library, and the Filipina Ladies Association selling barbecue skewers.

Due to your support the Library has raised money from its hot dog sales to buy a new computer for the Library's computer lab. The Filipina Ladies Association is raising money for their Christmas gifts for needy children. Both are worthy causes.

Thanks to Matson and its local representative, Amcres for putting on the tournament. Thanks to Mangrove Bay for hosting.

U.S. Navy Seabees install a new generator at the Pohnpei State Hospital

Embassy of the United States of America in Kolonia

The U.S. Navy Seabee "Can Do" attitude showed once again at the Pohnpei State Hospital. Two Seabees from U.S. Navy Mobile Utilities Support Equipment (MUSE) Division with the Naval Construction Battalion Center, Port Hueneme installed a new $130,000 emergency generator with an automatic transfer switch at the Pohnpei State Hospital. The new emergency generator replaces the 36 year-old generator, which was originally installed when the hospital was first built in 1978.

Governor Ehsa noted that the new generator will save lives with its ability to automatically provide power within 5-seconds in the event of a loss of power or a brownout. The old generator required a manual start, which often required anywhere from 5 to 40 minutes to start. Additionally, the old generator could only provide power for 40% of the hospital's needs, while the new one can provide power for 100% of the hospital's need during a power outage.

The delayed start meant patients who were in surgery or receiving dialysis treatment were endangered during power outages, and sometimes the loss of power resulted in the loss of life. The automatic transfer switch in the new generator will provide almost instantaneous emergency power, thereby saving lives. The automatic transfer switch also has the capability to sense power surges and will switch over to emergency power during times of power fluctuation, which will prevent damage to the expensive delicate electronic equipment used in the hospital.

A handover ceremony was held September 5 at the Hospital.

U.S. Compact funds provided the funding for the new generator.

The Seabees also provided hands on training for the maintenance crew. The training included the step-by-step procedures required to maintain the generator in good working order.

U.S. Peace Corps Response Volunteers in FSM

The Embassy of the United States in Kolonia

Over the past 15 years, Peace Corps Response (PCR) has offered seasoned U.S. professionals the opportunity to undertake short-term, high-impact assignments to address development priorities around the world. Now, Peace Corps has offered this program to the FSM, and the first group of PCR Volunteers has arrived here. All of them have advanced degrees and an average of over two decades of experience; they will help with building local capacity for 12 months.

In Pohnpei, a Health Specialist, is working on NCD surveillance and monitoring, and is working on health messages to accompany recipes using local foods, as well as additions to the school health curriculum, and getting more people to exercise.

In Yap, two PCR Volunteers are working at Yap Hospital. One is serving as a Hospital Laboratory Specialist with Yap Hospital's laboratory technicians to address quality control in their work, and is introducing new standard operating procedures and techniques that allow them to accomplish their objective. The second PCR Volunteer, an Environmental Health Specialist, is working to protect Yap State's environmental and human health by applying his knowledge and training towards addressing issues that include mosquito borne disease, regulation development and enforcement, limiting exposures to pesticides and other toxins, waste management and environmental sustainability programs, as well as teaching environmental health at the College of Micronesia. He has completed a human and environmental health assessment of the outer islands, from Ulithi to Satawal, and helped to write the Yap State public outreach campaign for the measles vaccination program. Now, he is working with the Yap State EPA and EHS to better manage and develop the State's waste management plan in order to protect public health, preserve the environment, and benefit the local economy and tourism sector, as well as implementing an Outer Island vector control program that will include net distribution and indoor residual spraying in order to transition the current approach from outbreak response to one of early control and disease prevention.

Another PCR, a Marine Environment Specialist, is working with the Yap Marine Resource Management Division staff on improving data collection techniques and data analyses. To date they have designed a more robust environmental impact assessment for coastal construction projects and have implemented this assessment at multiple project sites; also they have developed a new database for the giant clam stock around Yapese waters, and have improved upon stock assessment techniques. In the immediate future they plan on conducting small-scale aquaculture feasibility studies and implementing a GIS (resource mapping) component into their data collection process.

More Peace Corps Response Volunteers will arrive in FSM over the next two months. FSM leadership and the U.S. Peace Corps administration are working to bring more PCR Volunteers to Micronesia in the future.

When I was a kitten

Can you fit the underlined words correctly into the grid? One letter has already been entered to get you started.

When I was a kitten
 I was smaller than a mitten,
 Everyone who saw me said, "Ah!"
 If I got in a muddle,
 I'd always get a cuddle,
 They'd never let me wander very far.

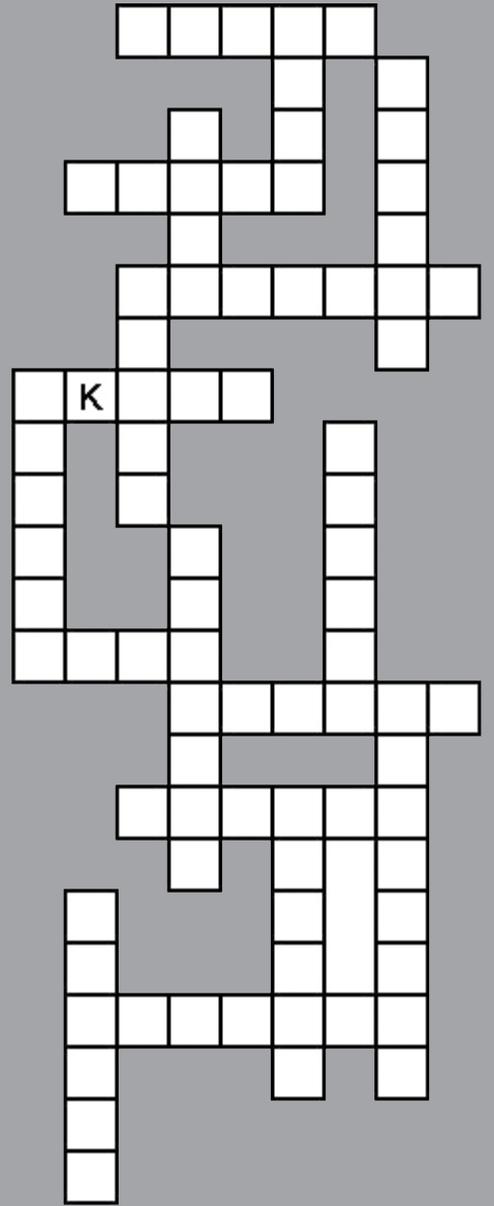

I remember being small
 I was the cutest of them all,
 They'd smile and call out my name.
 I'd play on the rug,
 They'd give me a hug,
 It was all like a wonderful game.

I was such a chubby thing
 I'd jump and spring,
 I had beautiful soft shiny fur.
 I was brave for my size,
 I'd chase spiders and flies,
 A tickle would always make me purr.

But the more I grew,
 The less people said, "OO!"
 I soon became worldly and wise.
 Now I hunt with skill,
 I enjoy the thrill,
 I'm a master of stealth and surprise.

I'm muscle and bone,
 I can stand on my own,
 I know how to sharpen my claws.
 I let my fur down,
 With nights on the town,
 I can wash my face with my paws.

Now that I'm grown
 I'm out on my own.
 I get to do things my own way.
 But I still enjoy fish,
 In my special dish,
 Served up for my dinner each day.

World Bank grant under IDA 17 funding estimated at 50 million USD for FSM fiber optic projects

FSM Information Services

September 04, 2014

Members of the World Bank Field team for the FSM fiber optic connectivity projects visited Pohnpei and met with national government officials, FSMTC, and the FSM ICT Project Taskforce, headed by Secretary Francis Itimai of the Department of Transportation, Communication, and Infrastructure. The objectives of the visit were to consult with officials and key stakeholders and to work with the Taskforce to finalize the project plans and related documentation for consideration by the World Bank board for a project that will bring the maximum fiber connectivity in the FSM under grant funds under IDA 17 funding, which has been estimated at 50 million dollars.

(August 7-10, 2014) Following Pohnpei visit the World Bank's senior legal adviser and members of the FSM ICT Project Taskforce headed to Chuuk:

- 8 August meetings with following offices:
 - Governor's Office and Cabinet Members.
 - President of Senate and Members.
 - Speaker of 12th Chuuk Legislature and Members.

- 9 August. Meeting with members of Chuuk Chamber of Commerce.

The World Bank and Project Taskforce consulted with Chuuk leadership on the finalization of the Chuuk portion of the project. The reception by Chuuk leadership was positive and general consensus was reached as to the urgency of finalizing the project design in time to ensure consideration of the project when the World Bank Board meets on November 23, 2014.

The President was briefed by the Task Force on the outcome of the consultations with the Chuuk Leadership and on the specifics of the project as outlined in the letter to him from the World Bank Country Director and in return approved the Task Forces plan to work with the World Bank to effectuate the approval of this project package by the Board of the World Bank in November 2014.

The FSM's deadline to submit a final project to the World Bank in order to qualify for the proposed World Bank funding is early September, 2014. By then, the FSM will have a final project design; a project manager for the Yap portion of the project, which is a joint venture with Palau, an approved procurement plan for project consultants; and ensure timely publication of environmental and social assessments for the landing of fiber optic cable in Chuuk and Yap.

In early September, 2014, The FSM Taskforce is planning to meet with Palau counterparts and key stakeholders such as the donor partners from the World Bank and the ADB, the ICT project team, project managers and consultants to finalize the documents for the FSM project, and to coordinate next steps for implementation.
