Boxers make FSM history in a variety of ways at 2015 Pacific Games

A "corner" witnesses FSM greatness and history as it is made

By Erick B. Divinagracia
FSM Boxing Association

This past 2015 Pacific Games had historic implications for the FSM on different levels. This was the first time in FSM history that it sent a team of boxers to compete at the Pacific Games. This is also the first time in 52 years since boxing became a competition in the Pacific Games that it allowed the sport of women's boxing in three Olympic Categories, 48-51Kg, 57-60Kg and 69-75Kg. Team FSM sent three male boxers, Derick Perman, Angelo Rodriquez, and Royce Rott of Pohnpei State to make their first ever competition debuts at the Pacific Games. The FSM team was anchored by one female, the highly experienced Jennifer Dugwen Chieng. Her accomplishments at the time included being ranked the Number #2 Women's Amateur Boxing's Lightweight fighter in the United States, the 2015 NY Daily Golden Gloves Champion, the 2014 USA National Silver Medalist, the 2014 Metro Champion, 2012 - 2013 WPAL Champion, the 2014 FSM Athlete of the Year, and one of four FSM athletes to be awarded an Olympic Solidarity Scholarship the past year.

All FSM Boxers made their weight at the General Weigh-In morning and received their opponents and dates to compete as follows: July 14- Derick Perman v. Teata Teihoarii (Tahiti) in the 69kg, July 15- Angelo Rodriquez v. Tautuarii Nena (Tahiti) in the 75kg, July 16- Royce Rott v Tom Boga (PNG) in the 64(kg) and Jennifer Chieng v. Hatara Lagana Ioane (Tahiti) in the 57-60kg.

In Derick Perman's bout he immediately went to work on the Tahitian by mixing hooks to the body and head and throwing overhand rights to the taller fighter. The fight was at a blistering pace based on the excitement of the fighter. For some reason the referee, to our shock and disbelief,

INAUGURAL ADDRESS

By
His Excellency Peter M. Christian
President of the Federated States of Micronesia

Mister Speaker and Members of the FSM Congress, former Presidents, Honorable Chief Justice, Mister Vice-President, Honorable Governors, Speakers and Members of our State Legislatures, Chiefs and Traditional Leaders of Micronesia, members of the clergy, ambassadors and distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen, my fellow citizens of the FSM everywhere:

This day marks another milestone in the history of our young nation. It also marks for me a monumental milestone. I am honored beyond words to address you as your new President, but the occasion is first and foremost a celebration of the Federated States of Micronesia and its enduring constitution.

I do wish at the outset to express deep gratitude to my supporters and the voters of Pohnpei State for re-electing me to Congress last March. Additionally, I thank the members of the Congress for their vote of confidence in honoring me with the highest office of the land. I promise to do my utmost to be worthy of the honor and confidence.

In 1979 the historic First Session of the First Congress of the Federated States of Micronesia convened in Kolonia, in what used to be an old Japanese school building. This event marked also the birth of a new Nation. At about 1:25 pm, Thursday, May 10, 1979 temporary Speaker Christian recognized Senator Luke Tman to present the Credential Report on the members-elect.

Sergeant at-arms-Sintaro Ezra escorted the Honorable Judge Mamoru Nakamura who administered the Oath of Office to members. Temporary Speaker Christian then said: However short lived my position up here, I still would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you senators and welcome you officially to Ponape.

At 1:30 pm Temporary Speaker Christian declared recess.

At 1:33 pm, the first Speaker of the FSM Congress, the Honorable Bethwel Henry reconvened Congress.

Today I am honored to recognize two people in our midst, The Honorable Bethwel Henry and Honorable Dr. Olter Paul, who in their younger and more energetic days served in the Congress that would force forth-and-up-front the notion that the people of Micronesia aspire for and would have nothing less than a sovereign nation.

Today, close to four decades later, I stand before you as the 8th President of our young Nation. I find myself older, but still overwhelmed with the same mixed feelings of some excitement and a lot of nervousness. Today, I am comforted by the sight of men who helped found this nation, the presence of my colleagues in Congress, our leaders from the four States, our friends and neighbors of Micronesia, and our distinguished guests who also have been our development partners.

I am also so very encouraged by the kindness of the traditional leaders who have graced us with their presence. I also take shelter in the shade of all of you, citizens of Micronesia, whose well being Vice President George and I must now look after. My greatest confidence and comfort in even wishing for this difficult task - lies in my loving family, especially my dear wife, Maurina. Thank you so very much. Thank you, all of you!

Two months ago this day, Typhoon Dolphin followed in the path of Maysak and swept thru parts of Micronesia with such angry force that the session in which VP George and I were selected by Congress was without many who we had hoped would be there for us. We hope that you are here today. And we thank you very much.

I would like at this time to acknowledge and thank the men who have served this nation as presidents and vice presidents, paving the way for VP George and I. Many of you have heard me say on many occasions before in Congress that one must not tear down a good house simply because he does not like the man who builds it. VP George and I promise to follow President Remengesau's wise advice to his people: to keep the best, and improve the rest. Thank you, Tommy.

Today we commemorate the birth of an idea: The Micronesian spirit of unity. It is an idea tempered by the belief that we - though separated by miles of ocean, different languages, and diverse cultures - that our nation can find, within its sea of differences, the deepest measure of unity. It is an idea declared in the preamble to our constitution that "we, who have been the wards of other nations, become the proud guardians of our own islands". Unity for us cannot be taken for granted. It is the post on which our vines of prosperity sustain themselves and can continue to prosper.

Let us embrace the spirit of sharing. It is in this same spirit that we must reach out to one another in our communities and make ourselves strong, self reliant, and resilient. For only in this way and from this way that we can encourage others to become more selfless and caring for others as we ourselves wish to be.

As a small nation we have little to offer for the improvement of what ails most of those who suffer in this world. What we can do, however, is help ourselves. Take charge and establish authority and responsibility. Become most dependent on ourselves. Manage our affairs well. For what we do to help ourselves will lessen our need to cry out to others for help. In this we leave more for those in greater need. This is our contribution.

I note a wonderful thing we have in Micronesia. There is the church in its various forms and denominations. There is culture, diversified as it is intended, but with many common bonds rooted in our heritage. Then there is the government, established by commons and nobles alike to insure safety and fairness for all. There is the leadership of each of these governing functions, anointed, dedicated, and united to serve the people in the name of God and country. It is, indeed, a blessing to be of this country, Micronesia.

Fellow Leaders, let us lead; lead our people to do good for ourselves for such goodness shall overflow to others. We must insist that we all do this not only because it is the civil thing to do, but more so because it is the Christian way.

Like the Presidents who have come before me, I have come to know what I have long before suspected - that the problems that ail our country are many. Some are small and fixable by simple realigning of wants against needs; by refocusing our attention from what there is, to what needs to be.

Some of the problems are easy to correct as they are internal to the national government. But some of the problems are rooted in the intricacies of tiered governments where there are Municipal, State, and National jurisdictions all vying to serve the same constituents, but often tripping over each other because of unclear delineation of powers, coupled with political ambitions of three levels of legislative bodies. On this, I ask that we work together to overcome the causes of these difficulties.

Some of the problems, however, are more complicated as they often represent levels of disagreement between our country and other countries and international organizations whose interests in our affairs are not always compatible with our own. Entangled in these problems are not always issues that ask "what" or "why"...but "how." How do we promote our relationships without stepping on each other's toes? Genuine, honest-to-goodness respect for each other's right to choose "how" is what we need in order to overcome these difficulties and problems. Sometime we must let our hearts think for us.

We already have a government that is functional. Vice President George and I commit to guiding our government into one that is more directed, more efficiently oriented, and more responsive to the needs of the people. Absolute success may not be attainable, but we promise to give the effort our best, as stewards of this nation and as implementors of policies set by Congress. These are our simple promises. It is now your responsibility to hold us to them.

We also pledge a renewed realization of our nation's goal, and call on Congress to help us as we try to fulfill our mandate to move us closer to our goals. Our nation's goal, since its inception, has been only one - to improve the social well being of the people of the nation by whatever means available. That was our nation's goal thirty six years ago, and that is still our goal today.

We must continue to recognize that given the geography, the geopolitics, and the varied component states that make up our nation, the course toward that goal is not easy. But with the help of Congress, our traditional leaders, our church leaders, and you, the citizens of the FSM, together, I believe that we will be able to achieve our nation's goal: to give every citizen of the FSM an opportunity - not just a promise - but a real opportunity to build a better life.

Nation building is hard and indefinite because there is no finish line. There is no end. What there is are the markers that help measure how far we have come and how well we have done.

This effort is a relay in which the baton of progress is passed from people to people, leaders to leaders, and generations to generations. A heat run poorly or a baton dropped can cause tremendous penalty in a nation's race toward its desired goals. The poorer the nation, the harder it is to restart and get to the next marker as planned. Against this latter assertion, we must become more vigilant during our watch.

With the blessing of opportunity comes the demand for responsibility. In the Micronesians' dream for self-government, one significant road block that stands out for us is our inability to yet wean ourselves from paternal relationships.

Each and every one of us, as citizens of the FSM, must embrace personal responsibility - not only for ourselves and for our families, but for our neighbors and for our nation, and for our Micronesian region. Our greatest responsibility is to embrace a renewed spirit of community and unity. For any one of us to succeed, we must succeed as one, as in one nation, as in one people, as in one dream.

As we strive toward our nation's goal, there are markers along the path. Some serve to indicate our work in progress, or lack thereof, in our effort to achieve more economic self-sufficiency and improved social well-being. Some markers, however, are more significant - the creation of the Congress of Federated States of Micronesia, the ratification of our nation's constitution, the Congress of Micronesia organization of the FSM Government, the ratification of the Compact of Free Association, and our becoming a member of the United Nations. These are not mere markers. These are our monuments of testimony of our political progress as a nation and as a people on our journey from a long period of Colonialism to assertion of self governance.

We must now work to improve our economy.

Vice President George and I promise to do all we can during our term to help our nation reach its goals, realize our dreams, and provide our citizens an opportunity for a better life. But alone, we can only do so much. We will need the help of our fellow elected representatives in Congress. We all have a solemn responsibility for the people who entrusted us the power of government. We must always remember that the mandate given to us by the people is not one to be ignored or taken lightly. I say this not so much as a message to you, but more as a reminder to myself.

To our friends from all across the globe, we share the sentiment etched into our preamble: "we extend to all nations what we seek from each: peace, friendship, cooperation, and love in our common humanity."

The first half of the 20th century will always be remembered as a period of world conflict. In this difficult period in our history, we witnessed the atrocities that misguided man created. And in this period, we also saw the biggest effort ever put forth in man's attempt to institute what was hoped to be the organization that would forever maintain peace and order. In support of the establishment of the League of Nations President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed... "a general association of nations must be formed under special covenant for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike...An evident principle runs thru the whole program. It is the principle of justice to all peoples and nationalities, and their right to live on equal terms of liberty and safety with one another. Whether they be strong or weak." He ended by saying, "The people of the United States can act on no other principle."

The government and the people of Micronesia subscribe to this man's declaration of principle. Not blissfully and not without forethought. Not in a chance discovery attitude; certainly not in the way Columbus came upon the shores of the Americas.

Such a noble thought would seem enough to attract world leaders to subscribe to those peace principles. But, those plans failed because man will always be what he is...a man...weak in his ability to control that inherent animalistic instinct to be better than others, to conquer by conquest, to feel right with might. And in their plunders to be victorious... we, the small, the weak, and the less blessed become victims, and become the spoils of war, and sadly the objects of observation in man's effort to improve upon modern warfare weapons.

The World Wars have ended; the cold war, a secret myth of yesterday. And in all such sad conflicts, there are those who claim victory. But, victors must be humble in their triumphs. Many nations involved in the conflicts have risen from the debris of war to become dominant economic powers in the world. They now wage economic wars against each other often leaving in their wake victims of selfish globalization. And where they are generous, often this generosity comes with a Pavlovian leash.

My friends, let us put history in its proper place and look to it for encouragement that we use our might for what is right.

To our friends who stood against each other in the conflict of armed wars, we ask you today to stand together with us and resolve to remember war as a conflict of the past. Together let us promote friendship, partnership, and cooperation as our strength for the future. We have enough common challenges today to keep us busy: climate change crisis, sea level rise, poverty, hunger and famine, illiteracy and incurable diseases, genocide, human trafficking, and economic imbalance.

These are the challenges of today. They should be enough to keep us busy. Let us divert the energy of our anger for things past toward these challenges before us now and the days ahead. But, as we do so...looking forward...let us not be afraid to look back to see where we have come from, lest we forget who we really are. Let us take strength and wisdom from our past and apply this strength for the good of the future.

Let us not be afraid to sift thru the rubbles of our forgotten thoughts...because in this rubble we may find memories of our good past, a wonderful thing to cherish. That is what we should carry forth.

Our distance from industrial centers has for some time been a constraint in our efforts to attract businesses and investors to look at Micronesia. The Government of the Federated States of Micronesia will continue its efforts to make our country a good and safe place to invest in. We believe that in order to achieve our development goals, the government must work closely with the private sector.

In spite of the poor grades the World Bank assigns us - we must remain careful that our success in promoting foreign investment does not come at the expense of our local business people, our culture, and our fragile environment. We must take care and sustain what we promote. We must, by necessity and dictate, be extra selective in the kinds of business enterprises that we choose to invite into our country. Sometimes doing the right thing can be painful. But we must stay strong and we must dedicate ourselves to the task of serving well by doing right by our own people first.

We must widen our vision and deepen our resolve to build and promote good, strong, and responsible government. We must strive to handle the affairs of government with integrity and operate with more openness. We need a government that can live within its means and can do more with less. We need a government that is humble enough to know its limitations, yet bold enough to stand up for our values and interests in the world.

Let us remind ourselves that naiveté, the greatest sin of a youthful nation, is often exasperated by arrogance of leaders by their inability to admit ignorance, and that acceptance of our weakness is our first strong step forward.

The Federated States of Micronesia has truly come a long way. Yesterday we explored the seas in rafts and canoes. And when we came to these islands - we displaced no other man. Although we still gather under thatched roof houses, we no longer have to sit and talk late into the night about which form of government will suit us best. Today although we now voyage with other nations among stars, we know and remember our heritage; we know in our hearts that this nation has meaning and spirit beyond what we see. And we know that our unity is our greatest strength.

Thank you all very much and God bless the Federated States of Micronesia.

gave Derick three standing eight counts when he never once hit the canvas. The referee's action called a stop to the fight. Derick took the loss very hard in the locker room where even other fighters consoled him by telling him not to worry as he is very young and has his whole boxing career ahead of him. They assured him that he will bounce back.

"I'm fine, I never was stunned, hurt or felt outclassed", Derick said in the locker room after the fight. "I know what hurt is. I've been more hurt in sparring sessions with my team mates using head gear and bigger gloves which caused me to stop. It is what it is. I'm going to go back and train even harder." Derick fought like a warrior the entire time he was in there and we are all very proud of him for giving it 100%. He will be back better than ever!

Angelo Rodriguez's bout was against Tautuarii Nena of Tahiti. It was clear from the first round that Angelo had more athleticism and power than Nena. He quickly earned Nena's respect by landing a couple of hard right hands. Angelo and Nena went back and forth for three rounds with the first round being a toss-up, the second round going to Angelo based on his aggressiveness and the third round going to Nena based on Angelo being too cautious. Ultimately the decision went to Nena. Angelo went back to the locker room and was of course highly upset with himself knowing that he gave away the fight. "I shouldn't have waited too long, and should have pulled the trigger more," Angelo said after the fight.

Still, for his debut fight, Angelo showed he belonged with the best as he could have clearly won his fight if he had applied more pressure in the third round against Nena who's impressive record includes being the Silver Medalist at the 2015 Pacific Games and the France University Champion from 2011-2014.

Royce Rott got the toughest draw assignment in the Light Welterweight class. He drew the light welterweight who was favored to win the Gold Medal, the highly experienced Captain of the PNG Boxing Team, Tom Boga. The fight was immediate fireworks with Royce and Boga trading full power blows causing two knockdowns and a stoppage, but not before Royce was able to land a 1 inch cut over Boga's left eye. Boga eventually went on to win the Gold Medal in the 64Kg class dominating opponent after opponent.

"It was a great fight and I lost to a great fighter," Royce said. "I was never hurt, I just got excited. I'm sorry for letting down my country, but I will train harder next time and try my best." Royce gave an exciting fight by fighting like a lion till the end and didn't back down from the best fighter in the competition and even gave him a good cut as a parting gift.

With all of the men on Team FSM now eliminated from the competition it was then up to Jennifer Chieng to attempt to win a bout for the first time in international boxing in Micronesian history and take home a medal. Jennifer's first fight was scheduled against Hatara Lagana Ioane from Tahiti. In that match she was able to win by split decision. It was the first win in the history books for a Micronesian in an international boxing competition.

The next night Jennifer faced Raphaella Baki of Team PNG for the Gold Medal Finals. Baki had about a two inch height and 20 pound weight advantage come fight night. As a former track athlete, Baki's physique was that of the highest caliber and was intimidating from the sheer size of her muscular body. She was Jennifer's biggest and most athletic opponent to date making it a very intimidating and ugly fight with lots of emotion. The fight was televised throughout the entire country and other Pacific Island nations. The Prime Minister of PNG and other dignitaries were in attendance at the arena watching the fight, along with 7 million Papa New Guineans backing Baki to win the Gold. Chieng had only a total of 9 Micronesians from the FSM contingent left in PNG. With practically no Micronesians in the arena to support her, it was then up to Jennifer to carry the weight of the entire nation of the FSM on her shoulders and bring back the Gold.

During the bout, during a couple of spurts Baki was able to crowd Jennifer with her sheer size and began brawling, which Jennifer obliged. The PNG crowd grew excited as it looked like Baki was getting the better of those types of exchanges. However, the cleaner blows were clearly landed by Jennifer with her left hooks and straight right hands. In the next couple of rounds Jennifer asserted her boxing superiority with better defense and clean power punch combinations that began to weaken her opponent. Baki's hands began to drop below her shoulders and her punches were thrown with no snap.

Jennifer's entire physical demeanor changed as her confidence grew. She began to circle Baki with a swagger, her hands completely down and her lead shoulder forward like Roy Jones Jr. in his prime, and then without warning she lept and exploded with a 1-2 combination and then again, followed by two solid lead rights that were all landing at-will on Baki's face. Those combinations were followed by a straight right left-hook combo that finished the unanswered assault which lasted about thirty seconds.

The FSM contingent along with the Tahitian and Tonga teams who were also watching the fight in the front rows started screaming and rooting for Jennifer too and yelling "MICRONEESIA!!!" On the televised version of the fight the blow-by-blow announcer was yelling: "Chieng with a right hand!! And another!! And another!! And another!! Look at Chieng now!! She looks like Bruce Lee! Ready to attack, look at her eyes zeroing right in!! This is a terrific final! What a fight!!!" The proud Papa New Guinean's heart and chin was unbelievable too as Baki amazingly was able to take those fully loaded power punches from Jennifer without hitting the canvas and she remained in the fight. Baki retaliated with one more burst of punches to try to stem the momentum of Jennifer's stamp on the fight but to no avail as Jennifer didn't give her the opportunity. She landed more solid counter punches on Baki's face. The final bell rang and everyone in the arena knew they had just witnessed Chieng put on a masterpiece boxing clinic at the highest level.

When we got back to the locker room, coaches from different boxing federations and members of the International Boxing Association (AIBA) who were present as technical advisors all congratulated Jennifer and told me that over the last two days, Jennifer put on the most impressive boxing display amongst all the fighters including the men. I asked Jennifer how much the win meant to her in comparison to winning the highly coveted 2015 NY Daily Golden Gloves tournament and the Silver Medal at the 2014 U.S. Nationals, two of the most prestigious boxing tournaments in the United States. She shook her head and said, "This victory means much, much more. All of my life I've watched athletes on television represent their country and stand at a podium and get awarded the gold medal with their nation's anthem being played and their flag raised and I can't believe its actually now happening to me. The whole event is now surreal. I just want to cry."

As part of the first group of women ever to compete in boxing at the Pacific Games, Chieng was also the first female to win Gold at the Lightweight Division in the games. She was also the first Micronesian to win an international boxing match. She is also the first Micronesian female athlete ever to have won a Gold Medal in any sport at the Pacific Games.

She had her dream moment as she took the podium and watched as the FSM flag was raised while the FSM National Anthem played.

For Chieng it was an emotional moment but it was also emotional for everyone in the FSM contingent to see one of their own dominate a sport where mental and physical toughness reigns supreme. We were all so lucky to witness history thanks to Jennifer.

Jennifer's win went viral in the FSM and also made international boxing news. AIBA's online news article called her "Micronesia's new hero", and a "sensation" who was able to "seal a memorable and emotional victory for herself and a proud nation." My good friend John Avira, President of the PNG Boxing Association and whose team won 8-13 Gold Medals making it the best boxing team in the Pacific, also sent me a congratulatory email regarding Jennifer's victory. He called her final bout a "magnificent win" and said that, "She was just awesome."

For those of you who don't know much about Jennifer, she is not only a great boxer but an amazing person as well. Twenty-eight year old Jennifer Chieng was raised in the FSM states of Yap and Pohnpei. She attended Seventh Day Adventist (SDA) schools. Her father is Yapese and her mother is from the Philippines. She is one of six siblings. Jennifer is also a proud single mother of her four-year old son Adam who is her biggest fan! Jennifer graduated from Well's College and currently works in the finance industry as a Vice President for the Bank of New York.

Although Jennifer may have moved from Micronesia to the mainland she is still definitely 100% Micronesian. Regarding being a role-model and representing the FSM, Jennifer said: "I'm just very happy and honored that I got this chance to represent my country in this tournament...I would encourage the youth especially all of the young women and men to find what they are passionate about and pursue it. I love this sport and so I hope that this win will generate more interest in boxing and more participation by the youth and everyone in Micronesia."

Now that the 2015 Pacific Games are in the history books, Jennifer is on a quest to represent the FSM and all Micronesians to win the Olympic Gold Medal and put the FSM on the World sports map. In order to achieve that goal she plans to take a break from the finance industry this year in order to concentrate and train to qualify for the Olympics in Brazil 2016.

Jennifer does need your individual support and the nation's support. You can personally make a difference today and help Jennifer on her quest to bring the Olympic Gold Medal to Micronesia by going to her GoFundMe page (www.gofundme.com/JenniferDugwenC) and making a donation. Any amount would be greatly appreciated and goes a long way for her training and preparation. Please help out and don't waste this opportunity. She is a highly decorated special fighter which the FSM may not see for some time to come. You can also follow Jennifer on her Athletes Page at "Jennifer Dugwen Chieng" on Facebook. Please also follow us too on the FSM Boxing Federation FB Page, where we will also post updates on Jennifer and the rest of the Team's members.

Lastly, the FSM Boxing Association thanks all of our families and friends and everyone else for all their love and support to the boxers, coaches and everyone involved with the FSMBA. Thanks also to everyone who personally donated and organizations that helped provide funds for the Pacific Games to make this historic event happen including the FSM National Government, through the Office of the President and the Department of Health and Social Affairs. It provided a $200 stipend to each athlete and coach and funded some of the TEAM FSM uniform costs.

The FSM National Olympic Committee funded all of the boxers' travel including Jennifer's trip from New York. It also funded stipends, insurance, warm-ups and team shirts, as well as PNG accommodation for a total of around $20,000. Local businesses also contributed to the entire FSM Team such as Palm Terrace Shopping Center, Etscheit Enterprises, Matson Navigation, the Bank of FSM, and Caroline Fisheries Corporation. Lastly, FSMBA thanks the people and government of Australia for funding its "Victory" project by providing a grant specifically to be used to help promote its boxers to be national role models and heroes, in order to help lead the battle against social and health problems in the FSM.

Let's go Team FSM!!!

Federated States of Micronesia receives U.S. assistance to protect victims of human trafficking

The International Organization for Migration (IOM) has been supporting the fight against human trafficking in Federated States of Micronesia (FSM) with the help of a grant from the U.S. Department of State's Office to Monitor and Combat Trafficking in Persons.

The project will contribute to the effective protection of victims of trafficking in the FSM through additional investments in: a) awareness raising on the issue of trafficking in persons (TIP); b) boosting understanding and capacity of law enforcement on proactive victim identification within vulnerable populations and the need for victim-centered protection; and c) establishment of national referral mechanism (NRM) for the protection of Victims of Trafficking (VoT) through strong partnerships with national and state authorities. IOM is utilizing its existing presence and relationships across the region to ensure a collaborative approach with governments and civil society.

To kick start these activities, IOM Micronesia and the FSM National Department of Justice (DOJ), conducted a workshop on 15 July, 2015 to establish a National Anti-Human Trafficking Taskforce to Address Human Trafficking in FSM. Activities included consultations with the National Police on updating standard operating procedures concerning human trafficking and victim identification. Following this preliminary workshop, the National Anti-Human Trafficking Taskforce will hold its first meeting on 23 July on the refinement of a National Action Plan (NAP). With the implementation of the NAP, risks of human trafficking will be mitigated and a better protection environment for victims of trafficking, migrants and potential migrants will be created in the FSM.

At this time, awareness-raising sessions on the risks of human trafficking are regularly conducted throughout the communities, focusing on schools and individuals planning to travel. Focusing on the victims and potential victims of human trafficking, IOM is developing a map of available protection services and resources. This map will provide locations of temporary shelters, health care, and appropriate psychosocial support, as well as legal assistance. This map will help inform the development of a National Referral Mechanism (NRM).

Additionally, IOM is conducting surveys to determine community knowledge of human trafficking. The results will assist in creation of educational materials, which will be developed under the guidance of a focus group.

Trafficking in persons, often referred to as "modern day slavery," comprises crimes such as forced labor, sex trafficking, bonded labor, and involuntary domestic servitude.

The FSM is a source and, to a limited extent, a destination country for men, women, and children subjected to forced labor and sex trafficking. The groups most vulnerable to trafficking in FSM include foreign migrant workers and Micronesian women and girls who engage in prostitution at restaurants frequented by crew members of Asian fishing vessels. FSM women also are recruited with promises of well-paying jobs to the United States and its territories, but are subsequently forced into prostitution or domestic labor upon arrival. Local authorities claim many sex trafficking cases are unreported due to victims' fear of embarrassment in the FSM's insular communities.

FSM was ranked Tier 2 in the 2014 Department of State Trafficking in Persons Report.

111 Vietnamese fishermen repatriated from FSM

Since November 2014, International Organization for Migration (IOM) Micronesia has been supporting the Federated States of Micronesia (FSM) as it dealt with the cases of Vietnamese fishermen who were detained in Micronesia for illegal fishing.

After more than eight months of negotiations, 111 of these fishermen who had served their sentences were repatriated to Viet Nam on July 7, 2015.

The boats used in the illegal fishing activities were impounded by Government authorities in Yap and Pohnpei.

This incident highlights the growing pressure on the region's fishing stocks and at a time when FSM government resources continue to be stretched while protecting their exclusive economic zone from illegal activities.

The repatriations were made possible with generous support from the Australian Government.

Pohnpei importer to pay over $200,000 for smuggling

FSM Customs and Tax Administration

A local importer faces over $200,000 in taxes and penalties for trying to smuggle into Pohnpei a large amount of goods without paying import taxes.

Customs and Tax Administration (CTA) officers recently found the hidden cargo during a routine inspection of a container at the port. The importer now has to pay not only the tax for a 200% penalty.

In recent months CTA officers have been tightening up on their inspection procedures. As a result, smuggled goods have been found in all FSM states with this recent cargo being the largest find.

A senior officer from the Department of Finance and Administration said today that everyone has to pay their fair share of tax. "If FSM wants schools, hospitals, roads and other infrastructure, then we all have to pay our fair share of tax, whether it is for imports, on wages, or on business receipts. With our receipts from the Compact decreasing each year, FSM has to collect its own taxes.

"We thank all those businesses who do the right thing. They pay their taxes and sell their goods at a price to cover those taxes.

"But if a business does not pay its taxes, then it can sell its goods at lower prices. This steals away customers from those businesses who do pay.

"The result is that the businesses who do the right thing get forced to close, people lose their jobs, and even less money is available for our kids' schools, our hospitals when we get sick, and our roads fall apart.

"When people evade tax they think they are being smart. They are not smart. They are stealing from other businesses, for our kids, from our sick, and from all FSM," the senior officer said.

The training shared tools that can be used by the participants as they lobby for the respective issues raised during the training program. It also addressed the importance of understanding legislation, policies and programmes that are undertaken at the State and National level. In addition, looking at the role of civil society and how the work that is undertaken compliments State programmes.

The importance of understanding human rights conventions such as the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) and the Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination Against Women are essential in order to work together with the Government as it develops legislation and national policies that protects the rights of its people.

Participants in the three day training, conducted July 13th to 15th, included members of the Chuuk Women's Council, youth representatives, civil society representatives and State representatives. ## FSMTC and ABS partner together to bring connectivity to the FSM

FSM Telecommunications Corporation

Bermuda, 27th July 2015 – ABS and FSM Telecommunications Corporation (FSMTC) announced that they have signed a multi-year, multi-transponder deal on ABS-6, C-band. The capacity agreement will provide internet connectivity to support FSMTC’s growing business.

The Federated States of Micronesia (FSM) is an independent sovereign island nation consisting of four states: Yap, Chuuk, Pohnpei and Kosrae in the West Pacific Ocean. FSMTC is a public corporation established by the FSM to provide all telecommunications services.

FSMTC will use the satellite capacity on ABS-6 to connect Pohnpei to the other 3 states and one of its neighbouring islands, Ulithi. The much needed internet connectivity will support commercial, government entities as well as serving educational institutions and communities bringing economic and social benefits.

FSM is subjected to climate changes and disasters such as typhoons and reliability of service is extremely vital. The ABS’

C-band service is an advantage over other solutions with minimal inference from severe weather conditions. This service will offer crucial communications to ensure that the necessary infrastructure is readily available.

“ABS is excited to collaborate with FSMTC to provide reliable communications. We recognize the progress FSMTC has made and understand the challenges it faces to provide internet connectivity available to its economy and its nation,” said Tom Choi, CEO of ABS. “Through this partnership, we will work together not only to deliver constant connectivity to the Pacific but more importantly, enable FSMTC to grow as a business and serve its people of FSM.”

“The cooperation with ABS has given us the opportunity to grow our business. ABS has listened to our needs to provide cost effective internet access to better serve FSM’s population,” responded John Sohl, CEO of FSMTC. “The partnership with ABS supports our goal of satisfying the growing broadband demands and services that best meet our users’ needs in a wide geographic environment.”

Traditional carvers shape Yap Games trophies

Waa'gey

Tuesday, July 21, 2015

Yap, Micronesia- A group of master craftsman on Yap are using cultural skills and traditional designs to create trophies for winning athletes in that Micronesian State's sports tournament.

The Fifth Annual Yap Games opened to a large crowd in mid-July at the Yap Sports Complex Gymnasium. Nearly 900 athletes, representing 10 municipalities across Yap, are competing in a dozen separate sports. Among the most popular are basketball, soccer and wrestling, according to Paul Lane, Director of Yap's Sports Council.

Organizers have partnered with Waa'gey, a group organizing efforts of local carvers, to developed distinctive traditionally inspired trophies. These symbols of reward and recognition are modeled after the "Carolina Proa," a complex all wood outrigger canoe design perfected -and made famous- by Micronesians. A complete canoe model decorated with red and black paint is for gold medalists. Those painted black and naturally varnished are for silver and bronze winners respectively.

Waa'gey is a community-based organization that uses traditional skills to confront the social, economic and environmental challenges faced by the people of Micronesia's most remote outer islands. The group pursues preservation of native technologies and arts both to protect our distinctive Island identity, and to solve specific problems relating to import dependency, urbanization, climate change, and unemployment.

Among the carvers directing work on these unique trophies are Carlos Yarofaireg, Henry Mailuw, Johnny Retiglur, and Larry Raigetel, all of Lamotrek Atoll.

Summer Reading Program 2015

The Pohnpei Public Library celebrated the Summer Program 2015 on July 17, 2015. There was a short program that was prepared for the day. Head Librarian welcomed everyone to the short program and thanked participants, volunteers and parents for their assistance during the four weeks program. All the participants received certificates and prizes presented by the staff and volunteers. Head Librarian also handed out certificates to the contributors and volunteers for this year on behalf of the Friends of the Pohnpei Public Library.

The Theme for this year's Summer Program was "Every Hero Has a Story". This year we were fortunate to have the Pacific Partnership to read stories and provide other activities for the kids on the first two weeks. From the theme, volunteers shared stories and provided activities for the kids. These activities were sent in a manual by the Collaborative Summer Library Program in Iowa. The kids learned songs, made crafts and enjoyed other fun and educational activities. The Program this year was funded through a grant from Institute of Museums and Library Services (IMLS). This Summer Reading has been very successful with the involvement of the volunteers, parents, participants and the contributors for this year. Friends of the Pohnpei Public Library would like to thank the IMLS, FSM National Archives, US Embassy, Pacific Partnership Team, Conservation Society of Pohnpei, Micronesian Conservation Trust and The Nature Conservancy for your valuable contributions and supports. And a huge thank you for the following individuals for their involvement during the four week program; Kelly Jo Vanderiet, Leslie Cook, Hanika Cook, Evan Cook, Sarah Clark, Easton Perman, D'artenan Weital, Marson Weital and Belsin Martin. ## Pohnpei Fishing Club Tournament at And Atoll

July 18, 2015

And Atoll, Pohnpei, FSM—Pohnpei LP Gas and 7 Stars hosted a fishing tournament with And Atoll as the base. Boats left from And after checking out at 5:00 in the morning. Fishers could also check out from Pohnpei's large island. Regardless of the check out point, the check in and weigh in was conducted at And Atoll. There was no charge for fishermen and spectators to stay on the beautiful atoll for either one or two days.

We had clear skies and calm seas for the tourney, which meant that the volume of fish caught was less than we would like, but the day out fishing was great and the party at And was well deserved.

Ambros, Incorporated donated beer for the tournament. A roast pig and other food and drink was provided by the sponsors.

Eighteen boats took part in the tournament.

The top three fishers with biggest fish would win big prizes of $800.00, $500.00 and $300.00 cash prizes. The top Lady angler and Junior angler would each receive $150.00. The "Catch 8" winner would win $300.00. A new prize offered at registration would be for total boat weight for $250.00.

Each boat registering and coming to the weigh in received a $50.00 gift certificate from the sponsors. It was a no lose proposition.

Though we all won just by participating, the winners of the tournament were as follows:

Category	Boat	Prize winner	Species	Weight
1st Biggest Fish	Salt Life	Marcela Hawley	Yellow fin	58.1
2nd Biggest Fish	Blue Fin	Arleen David	Yellow fin	33
3rd Biggest Fish	Saimon's Boat	Mangko Blum	Wahoo	32.1
Lady Angler	Salt Life	Marcela Hawley	Wahoo	26
Junior Angler	Ahnd Island	Trex Lee Lawrence	Wahoo	23.8
Species Catch 8	Salt Life	Marcela Hawley	5 Species	113.6
Boat Weight	Poawoawoa	Welbert David		166.2

The sponsors have said that they would like to make the tournament an annual event.

The Matson tournament will be next month.

Pohnpei farmers share plants with Chuuk for Typhoon Maysak

Agriculture Recovery

Pohnpei farmers have responded to the request for Chuuk typhoon recovery assistance with banana, taro, breadfruit, cassava, sweet potato, chia and spinach planting materials. Planting materials were received at the Island Food Community of Pohnpei (IFCP) office site.

Staff from the Pohnpei State Office of Economic Affairs (OEA) Agriculture, Federated States of Micronesia (FSM) Department of Resources and Development, COM (College of Micronesia) FSM CRE/CES (Cooperative Research Extension/ Cooperative Extension Services, Land Grant), USDA (United States Department of Agriculture) NRCS (Natural Resources Conservation Services), IFCP and FAO (Food and Agriculture, OEA). Agriculture OEA and FAO supervised and managed the collection, preparation, and sorting of these planting materials. Plant materials were sorted into individual bags containing 10 banana, 10 taro, 5 breadfruit and 40 sweet potato plants, ready to be delivered to 4677 households when they arrive on Chuuk.

These bags are being sent to Chuuk in three or four shipments. The first ship with 700 bags of plant materials left Pohnpei on July 20 and arrived at Chuuk on July 24. Some planting materials were delivered at upper Mortlocks as the ship was traveling on the way toward Chuuk.

The second ship is scheduled to leave Pohnpei with 900 more bags of planting material on July 27. Those 900 bags have been prepared sorted and packed. They will be loaded on the ship as soon as the sailing time is confirmed. Additional shipments are expected during August.

Funding for this typhoon recovery comes from the United States Agency for International Development (USAID). The Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the United Nations (UN) is executing the assistance through coordination with the Government of the Federated States of Micronesia (FSM).

Food For Thought: USAID and FAO are helping communities recover from the ground up

By Katlyn Murray

Healthy communities start with healthy individuals. USAID and the UN Food and Agriculture Organization's (FAO) Agricultural Program get to the root of the agricultural problems in areas of the Federated States of Micronesia affected by Typhoon Maysak by getting seedlings for healthy food crops to those who need them most.

As part of USAID's Typhoon Maysak relief efforts, FAO is supporting the recovery of agriculture in areas hit by the storm. Funded by USAID's Office of U.S. Foreign Disaster Assistance, FAO is providing seeds, live cuttings and tools to over 4,900 households in partnership with the Government of the Federated States of Micronesia (GoFSM).

Agricultural Specialist and FAO Consultant Konrad Engleberger states that the main aim of the project is food recovery.

"After Typhoon Maysak, a lot of people lost a lot of food crops and we want to help them to plant again," said Engleberger. "Those crops make them self sufficient in the food supply. So, the project is supplying vegetable seeds, planting material, and tools and also is doing training and the establishment of plant nurseries."

This approach is designed to help get members of affected communities back on their feet, without making them dependent on outside aid for subsistence.

The program starts with training. Agricultural trainers in each community are taught by FAO specialists how to plant and care for seeds and crops. These trainers are then responsible for teaching proper growing and harvesting techniques to members of their communities.

According to Engleberger, the need for agricultural assistance cannot be underestimated. "In Chuuk, more than 4,600 households were affected," said Engleberger.

The program will provide each family with a package of seeds, which include a variety of vegetables such as beans, cucumbers, eggplants, and pumpkin. Beneficiaries will also be provided with planting material for crops like banana, breadfruit, and taro, as well as tools for tending their edible gardens.

Though the program shows tremendous potential, there are many challenges associated with providing assistance to remote island communities. Due to the diminished local agricultural capacity in Chuuk caused by Maysak's destruction, the majority of planting material is being collected in Pohnpei and being shipped with the support of the GoFSM to the affected outer islands and to Weno for onward delivery to lagoon islands. FAO is partnering with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) to deliver the agricultural support along with shipments of supplemental food assistance, smartly combining the use of one ship for the two different but related programs.

The logistics of shipping seeds and fresh plants to the outer islands can be difficult, but for Engleberger and the rest of the USAID and FAO teams, the challenge is worthwhile.

"The end goal of the program is to make people self sufficient and not reliant on food aid [and] to give them access to healthy and nutritious food," said Engleberger.
